

Attention Corporate Counsel

The Canadian Association of Counsel to Employers (CACE) is an association of management-side labour and employment lawyers across Canada. CACE promotes excellence in the specialized field of labour and employment law, and engages in legislation and law reform activities at the provincial and federal level. Created in 2004 by a Founders' Committee of labour lawyers across Canada, CACE now has over 850 members, including leading labour and employment counsel, corporate counsel and affiliate members from the United States.

Membership Benefits for Corporate Counsel

- Free annual membership for Corporate Counsel – Starting December 2015!
- Access to over 550 articles produced specifically for our annual conferences and posted on our website
- The “must-attend” conference for labour and employment CLE, with every mandatory reporting law societies recognizing the annual conference with CLE accreditation
- 45 % percent off conference registration fees
- Network and develop relationships with the leading practitioners in management side labour and employment law
- Actively engage in influencing public policy provincially, nationally, and in our Courts on labour, employment and human rights matters of direct concern and relevance to employers in Canada
- Participate in Webinars delivering high level, practical & topical information and ideas to assist in your practice development and stay abreast of developments in the law
- One click links to member firm publications
- Join our Human Rights, Occupational Health & Safety and Privacy Sub Committees and participate on the regularly scheduled conferences call to stay up-to-date in these areas

To join CACE, please visit our website www.counseltoemployers.ca or for further information, email our Executive Director, Tracy Scanks at Tracy@proconadvantage.com.

